Official Military Correspondence Course

Whether you are preparing official correspondence or reviewing correspondence for completeness and conformity, this training workshop will show you how to locate and access applicable web-based policies and guidelines that identify the requirements for the efficient and effective preparation of quality correspondence that is consistent in style and format.

Workshop Content

This one-day interactive workshop provides attendees an overview and familiarization of web-based sources and requirements relating to the preparation of official military correspondence.

Course includes demonstrations on how to navigate, locate and access web-based publication and source information and facilitation on the preparation and review of specific correspondence (the Official Memorandum and the e-Staff Summary Package).

Who Should Attend

Personnel (i.e. managers, supervisors, executive officers, action offices, secretaries, administrative assistants), who are responsible for preparing and/or reviewing official military correspondence.

Workshop Goals

- Standardize, as appropriate, the preparation and distribution of official military correspondence
- Understand structure and formatting requirements.
- Review and evaluate correspondence; identify deficiencies and take or ensure corrective action.
